Just now, when our national feelings are more or less aroused with Nicaragua and diplomatic relations are at an end, one is reminded of 28 and what happened. The picture, "Under the Stars and Stripes," to-night at Grandstand, is intensely interesting, because it deals in a thrilling, intelligent manner with the Spanish American war. The facts, scenes and people are all true to history. The other drama, "A Tale of the Woods," is not to be compared with most pictures of the sort. It is far and away better. Lampers' benefit to-night.

The February issue of the Quarry Workers' Journal was published last night, being delayed somewhat because, it editorially says, "We have been expecting to announce to our members that the labor difficulty existing in Washington county, Vermont, had been settled," but thus far in vain. In another column, the journal says: "It has been suggested by James Duceau that a conference be called and each stone trade represented, for the purpose of a closer affiliation of the various crafts. This we heartily endorse, believing that if all organizations in the granite industry had working agreements and representation in the deliberations of the body, the labor difficulty in Barre would have been settled within two days after it started."

Tea Tippers in the Commons. Tea drinking statistics from England will astound Americans. We know that the great literary light, Dr. Johnson, drank more than twenty cups of this beverage at one sitting and that he chided a woman because, after his eighteenth cup, she asked him if he did not think he had drunk enough. We know that the madness of tea drinking has got into business houses over in London and that all work is suspended at 5 o'clock in the British capital while the Briton drinks tea. But who would have supposed that the mania had got into the house of commons?

Read this and be amazed! The figures of the interior of the house of commons show that each member of the house averages sixteen cups of tea daily. No wonder the British statesman lie awake nights and worry about Germany invasion. No wonder that they have horrid visions in the dark of dreadful airships floating over their beloved city dropping bombs and fire balls upon them.—New York Telegraph.

WEBSTERVILLE.

Funeral of Arthur Connor, whose Death Occurred Sunday.

The funeral of Arthur Connor, who died early Sunday, was held at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning at St. Sylvester's church, Granville. The requiem high mass was offered by Rev. Joseph Turrot.

The pupils of the intermediate class, of which the deceased was a member, accompanied the procession in a body to the church, under the direction of their teacher, Miss O'Brien. The bearers were William Boyce, cousin of the deceased, William Blaw, Thomas McLain and Louis Giguere, schoolmates. The body was interred in the Catholic cemetery.

The abundant display of flowers was one means of proving the high esteem in which Arthur was held, both by the young and old. The floral tributes were as follows: Cross, "Arthur," Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lamy, John Connor and John Connor, Jr.; wreath and carnations, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Connor, Websterville; Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Connor, Granville; Mrs. James Connor and family, James Boyce, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. John Boyce and family; Mr. and Mrs. William Donahue, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Donahue, Henry Patnode; Miss, teacher and pupils of the grammar school, teacher and pupils of the sixth grade; carnations and ferns, Miss Annie Houghton, teacher, and pupils of the intermediate class, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Nerney, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Charvon, Mr. and Mrs. James Lawson, Mrs. Frank McGuire, Mr. and Mrs. Carl C. Cutler, Frank Henderson, William Thom; carnations, Miss Margaret McDonald, Miss Annie Greenlay, Walter Greenlay, Daniel McDonald, John Mitchell, George Mitchell and a mixed bouquet with no name attached.

DEATH CAME SUDDENLY.

Joseph McNeil Taken Ill While Shopping in Fairfax.

Fairfax, Feb. 15.—Joseph McNeil of Georgia came here on business yesterday and while at J. W. Parson's store complained of numbness. He fell to the floor almost immediately afterwards and was taken to the home of his sister, Miss Jane McNeil, where he died at four o'clock. Mr. McNeil was a farmer, about 70 years old. The surprising moment of his immediate family are a wife and the sister at whose home he died.

THIS WEEK

when we advertised our latest Ladies' Suits at half price we very quickly found customers waiting for just such bargains. If you are to get one of these Suits come this week, later won't do. By selling these Suits and Coats at our prices it closes them out quick and leaves us the racks clear for new Spring kinds. It's a big sacrifice, still we think that it is our best way.

Suits and Coats

These garments are all new Fall styles. None of them of poor materials or poorly made. They are some of the best that came into our store this season.

Price sometimes signifies the quality, the original price does but the present price does not.

These values go to our best trade, those that want a good garment and can use it at these advertised prices.

These home sales are not much like sending away for goods that appear to be bargains only to find out in the end that the price was too much to begin with. We have to stand back of our merchandise and this makes a safe investment for all purchasers.

This Week

We are showing an advanced line of very fine Mercerized Poplins in a very large line of designs and colors. In fact we have pictured this line as one of the largest and best that will be shown in Vermont this season.

These Poplins were made for us from our own selected colors and patterns by the mills and come to us direct, so that you pay no middleman's profit. Add to the manufacturer's cost our small profit and the rest goes to you in real value.

These fine Poplins will be the most popular goods on the market for Spring suits and pleated skirts. A cloth that will be scarce before June 1st and the price is but 25c for any style or color.

This Week

Our window is now full of Gingham that for style and price are right. These Gingham are having a great sale. Ladies have come to know that the most wear for the money comes from a good grade of Gingham and then again the styles are there.

No class of wash goods has such a variety of uses, ready styles as the latest things in Gingham.

We have special values in 8c, 10c and 12 1/2c Gingham, also a few styles in Scotch Gingham at 15c a yard. (Not new.)

Saturday morning we are to sell all of the Hamburg in our window at 10c per yard by the piece of six yards. These are a good sale and cannot be duplicated. No two pieces alike.

Spring styles in New Regal Shoes came today. We are to take care of your Shoe wants this Spring without delay. We are to have the goods, not promises. We can make you Shoe happy.

FARMERS SHOWING INTEREST.

Attendance at Farmers' Week Is On Increase.

Burlington, Feb. 16.—The second day of Farmers' week at the university of Vermont opened yesterday morning at 8:30 with in address by Dr. F. A. Rice, professor of veterinary science at the university, on "Disease Caused by Foreign Bodies." The program was carried out as scheduled in advance for the morning, afternoon and evening sessions with the exception of the paper of "The Gipsy and Brown-tail Moths in Vermont," which was to have been given by Dr. H. E. Perkins of the university. Instead Prof. J. L. Hills read at some length from the Vermont Agricultural Experiment Station literature on the same subject.

The attendance at the lectures and demonstrations, all of which were held yesterday in Morrill hall, jumped by leaps and bounds and it is expected that the registration today will be still larger.

Three demonstration were given yesterday in Morrill hall, all of them simultaneously, at three o'clock in the afternoon. Prof. M. B. Cummings, S. Hargrave and J. W. Wellington gave a demonstration of the preparation and use of sprays, Messrs. Thayer, Anderson and Colbath one on testing milk and cream, and Prof. R. M. Washburn one on the pasteurization of milk and cream.

BUSINESS DEAL IN BURLINGTON.

Burlington Grocery Company Buys a Block.

Burlington, Feb. 16.—Papers were signed yesterday, transferring the Walker block at 106-108 Bank street, from the Walker estate to the Burlington Grocery company. The consideration was a trifle over $32,000. The estate from which the property was purchased comprises the estate of Hiram W. W. Solomon and O. J. Walker.

The Burlington Grocery company has occupied the building for the past few years and it is one of Burlington's most favorably known business institutions. It was founded in 1894 and four of the five directors who are active in its management. They are E. C. Mower, B. J. Derby, J. E. Miles and E. H. Martin. The recently made director is C. H. Mower.
